

CemeteryIndex.com

Small cemeteries (under 30,000 burials) can now record and publish to the web (internet) their burial records.

CemeteryIndex.com provides a free listing on their site for any cemetery using the TerraPro Cemetery Software from Terradise Computer Systems, Inc. The software is competitively priced starting at $750, with deep discounts for very small cemeteries of under 100 burials.

To get started, you will need an internet connection (you have one if you are reading this!), a computer to run the software and store the cemetery records, and personnel or volunteers ready to transfer your manual records to the computer.

TerraPro Cemetery Software Main Screen

Data is entered on easy to use screens:

The screenshot shows a software window titled "Cemetery Record" with a yellow background. At the top, there are four dropdown menus for "Name", "Lot", "Section-Lot-Grave", and "Contact". The "Name" dropdown is set to "HALDEMANANNMARY". Below this, the form is divided into three main sections: "Plot Burial Information", "Contact Information", and "Plots Owned".

Plots Owned:

At the bottom of the form, there are several buttons: "Previous", "Next", "Browse", "Edit", "Delete", "Update MySQL Online Database", and "Finished". Below these buttons are four checkboxes for sorting: "Order by Section, Lot, Grave", "Order by Lot", "Order by Name" (checked), and "Order by Contact". There is also a "Get Filter" button.

When finished editing, the user clicks the "Update MySQL Online Database" and the information is transferred to the website instantly. Changes can be made easily on these screens, and the web page updated again.

The software also tracks contact information and prints invoices and deeds for lots sold. Searching can be done by name, lot, section, or contact person.
